Look within these pages
With quiet eyes
Shadowed by remembrance.
Look within these pages,
And remember —
Dances, and the new formal,
The pleasant smell of perfume
And cigarettes,
The loud brassy band, rhythms,
The quietness as
Two people lived
In a world of their own,
Where no one was allowed entrance
For fear of shattering a dream.
Look within these pages and remember
The hallway conferences,
The laughter from the third floor,
The instructor's patience;
Remember the ideals—

Understanding, objectivity,
Maturity of judgment.
Remember the bridge sessions,
The cramming for exams,
The heady days of spring and fall,
The dreariness of winter made lighter
By the companionship of friends.
Remember the GI boots
And swagger,
The sadness when friends
Were remembered in their final place.
Remember the freedom, and democracy,
Make them not empty words.
Look through these pages
And remember with a smile
That holds the shadow of tears.
Then,
Close the book.

W. W. Reynolds

There used to be an old saying
To the effect that a Kentuckian
rared back on his heels one day and in defense of his honor said,
"Suh, I was born and bred in old Kaintucky, suh!"
To which a West Virginian replied,
"You may have been bred in old Kaintucky,
but buddy, yore just a crumb around heah!"
But Walton W. Reynolds is definitely
Not a crumb . . . he is a whole loaf
Of good wholewheat, with just enough crust
To lend flavor to a soft and wholesome heart.
If Rembrandt should ever paint his portrait
(a highly improbable act)
He would show him against a background of Adding machine tape, with $100 bills rampant
On a field of Education,
With a trio of pigeons wheeling in formation
above his leonine head.
He was the spark-plug
Of the building campaign.
(a piece of automotive furniture to which he bears a slight resemblance.)
He has built up the Business Ad
Portion of the college
Until a majority of the vets
Are busy sweating over accounting,
Bus. Org. and Fin., etc.
Walter W. Reynolds
Is a CPA. Which means
He is a certified public accountant (business firms please note).
It does not mean College Pool Analyzer,
Because he does not play pool.

Neither does he drink.
A most remarkable man.
A list of his additions, recommendations, and improvements to the college would seriously affect the current paper shortage.
Another thing that one notices about WW is his speed. He gives the impression of an 8 ball
rebounding from the first cushion, rolling steadily and purposely
toward the side pocket.
He has also lifted bodily Several large buildings from the WAA and deposited them on the site of (hats off please) the New Campus.
These temporary expedients will give way to the magnificent (hats off again please)
New Buildings
Come the not too far distant future,
Seen, as Shakespeare says,
Through a glass darkly.
We think it was Shakespeare anyway . . .
WW Reynolds has contributed to Morris Harvey immeasurably.
If his time were stretched out
end to end,
It wouldn't meet.
If his sweat and tears were piled up
The Atlantic ocean would have a competitor.
Thus we dedicate, with overflowing heart
and printers ink,
This Harveyan to
W. (for Walton) W. (for something or other) Reynolds.

In the complexities of modern life
The student would be as a ship
Without a rudder,
Tossed with no direction
Upon a sea of doubt.
The Administration, and the Faculty
Are the rudders, the guiding hands.
The minds, untutored and unskilled,
must be molded and shaped into arrows pointing towards, if not always attaining,
the good things of life.
The Faculty, patient, hardworking,
Guiding the immature minds,
Gaining their youth again
Through the guidance of the unskilled,
Finding their happiness
In the knowledge of a job well done.
The Administration,
Making the money stretch
making things do
Until the dreams of a new campus
are realized,
furnishing the facilities for knowledge.
Both of these are deserving of commendation.

In the democratic ideal
of a classless society,
The college has failed.
Because there are four classes in college.
The Freshman, or bilious green,
The Sophomore, or silly,
and Junior, or
Gee look, I need a shave!
and the Senior Class,
Beneath whose feet
The rest of the student body
groans in oppression and envy.
The Senior Class is a superior group of beings endowed
With great knowledge, and the wisdom
Of the ancients, cultured, mannerly,
Courteous. The Senior Class
Is like unto the Gods of Valhalla,
Warriors in the cause of wisdom,
They have attained the pinnacle of success
Scholastically.
But their extra-curricular activities
Show that these exalted beings
live double lives.
The Senior Class may be found deep in study
in the College library, Olders,
or even, it has been whispered,
studying geometry and trig
At the Strand.
Nevertheless
There is dignity in the attainment
Of the cap and gown.
The diploma is a treasured thing,
The key to the greater mysteries of life,
The open sesame to opportunity and success.
Let us hope
That the attainment of wisdom will not cease,
That the ideals and knowledge of their college life
will be put to good use
In the dark years
Of the future——

Out of nearly 1900 students at Morris Harvey College, 783 are Freshmen, the largest class on the campus. This class held the dominating power of the student body since they were in the majority.

Here are some of the accomplishments of the Freshman class and some of its most active members.

The sergeant-at-arms of the Student Body, Ed Clark, and the editor-elect of the COMET, Harold Gadd, are members of the Freshman class.

Of the various other members from the Freshman class, we have: Ruth Ellen McLaughlin, choir member and pianist for the May Day ceremonies; Jeanne Agsten, maid of honor for May Day; Jo Ann Case, member of the May Court; John Allesandrini, cheerleader; Etta Jean Kelly, cheerleader; Paul Jones, Pappy Yokum in Sadie Hawkins Day ceremonies and vice-president of the Frosh class; Bill Bordas, basketball star; Bob Ratliff, advertising salesman for the HARVEYAN; Bill Wynne, president of the Debating club; Mary K. Chapman, member of the COMET staff who interviewed all the celebrities coming to Charleston; Connie Doumany, president of Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity; Jean Rush, HARVEYAN beauty; and Naomi Thabet, advertising manager of the HARVEYAN and business manager of the COMET.

During the past school year, the Freshman class has sponsored two class dances. The "Grin and Bear It" show was composed mostly of Freshman class talent.

Such are the accomplishments of the largest Freshman class who will next year inherit the new campus across the river. May they continue to do well.

Extra-Curricular Activities

Quite often the academic life must be leavened
with extra-curricular activities.
The routine of textbooks and teachers,
classes and climbing stairs,
grows bitter on the tongue,
and the jaded mind looks upon the world through a jaundiced eye before which swims the date of the Norman conquest, or 2x equals something or other,
or Differentiate Between The Religious Beliefs
of the Hindu and the Moslem.
The organizations meet the need for social life,
Pander to the herd instinct, the prestige necessity.
Fraternities, sororities, clubs,
all contribute their own peculiar flavor
to the stew of college life.
Dances and dates, tuxedos and formulas,
hot tea, punch, little sandwiches . . .
or else the earnest and serious minded hanging breathless upon the words of a member calmly disposing of the ills of the world with a dispassionate logic.
They will probably be remembered longer than the date of the Norman Conquest.

The Student Council, governing body for the student body of Morris Harvey, meets weekly for the purpose of encouraging and aiding all worthwhile student activities.

Some of its main projects this year have been:

Sadie Hawkins Day—November 2, 1946, one of the most colorful ceremonies of the school-year, featuring Al Capp, writer of the "Li'l Abner" cartoon strip. Characters, selected from the student body, participated in a downtown parade, and later at gala half-time event during the Marshall-Morris Harvey football game at Laidley field.

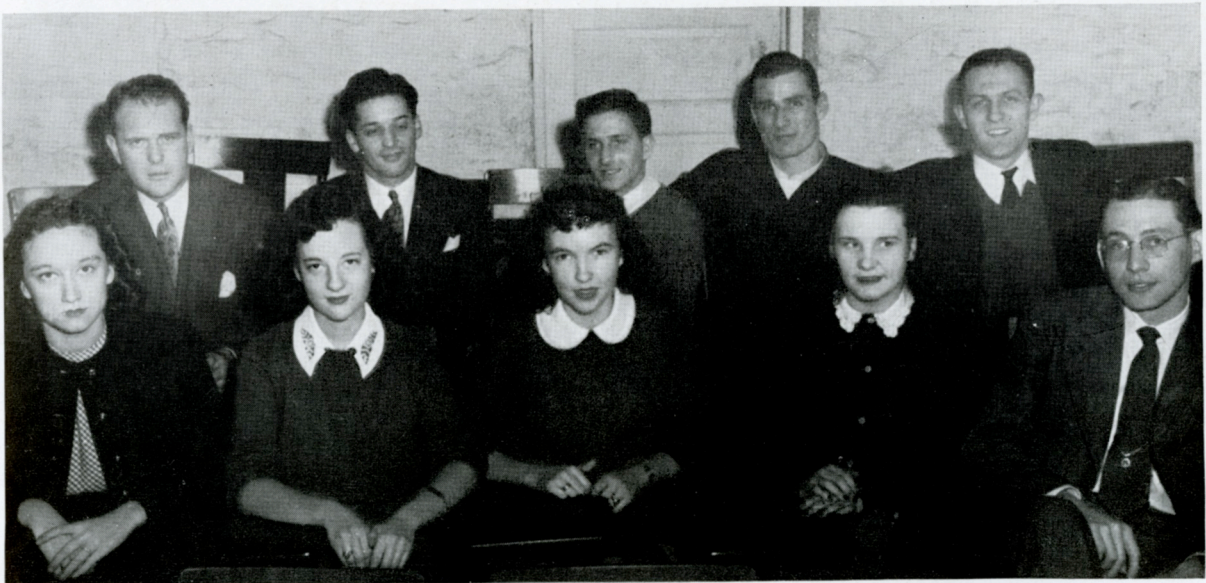

Activity Point System—a policy limiting activities by the few through the adoption of a point system to prevent monopolization of extra-curricular activities.

May Court—May 16, 1947. The May Queen and her Court were honored in the traditional ceremonies held on the Capitol steps.

Student Council Banquet—Annual banquet for present officers and members and the newly elected officers for 1947-48.

The Panhellenic Council, established on the campus in 1938, functions to obtain closer cooperation among sororities and fraternities in college activities.

Membership in the Council is composed of the president and one member elected from each Greek letter organization, with two faculty members chosen by the council and the president of the college.

The college has general supervision over Rush Week and Bid Week activities and other affairs in which the Greek letter organizations take part.

In February 1947, new members were welcomed into the Council from the Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity, a new national fraternity organized on the Morris Harvey campus.

Alpha Mu, the oldest sorority on the campus, celebrates its twenty-second anniversary this year. The sorority was founded on the mythology of the Greek muses.

The annual Fashion Tea for all women students of the college opened social activities in the fall. The first semester rush party was a Chinese party. First semester pledges were honored at a dinner at the Terrace; second semester pledges were entertained at a Grill Party. The mothers of the members were guests of honor at a Mother-Daughter banquet held in May.

Alpha Mu sorority lists among its members, the editor and news editor of the COMET, the vice-president of the Student Council, one council member, this year's May Queen and two members of her court, the vice-president of Chi Beta Phi, president of Theta Iota, and three members were represented in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Phi Kappa Sigma sorority was established to promote close, lasting friendship and to heighten social activities. It aims to provide proper recreation that will divert energies into the proper channels and to create intimate friendships that would otherwise be impossible because of the absence of dormitory life.

Listed among its annual activities are a "Twilight Tea," Fall Dance, Christmas Party, Formal Pledge Dinner, Pledge Show and Party, and the Spring Formal.

Phi Lambda Tau was organized in 1929 as a local social sorority on the Morris Harvey campus. Since that time it has grown to be the largest sorority in the college. Membership is based on character, scholarship and personality.

Activities for the year included the annual tea at the home of Mrs. J. E. McDavid, a barn dance at the YWCA, Valentine party, rush parties and the spring formal.

Phi Lambda Tau is represented in almost every other type of organization on the campus, having members in the May Court, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, Chi Beta Phi, FTA, International Relations Club, Choir, HARVEYAN and COMET staffs, president of the Choir, circulation manager of the COMET, and editor of the HARVEYAN.

The Beta chapter of Phi Sigma Phi was formed on the Barboursville campus of Morris Harvey College on November 12, 1929. As shown on the seal, the fraternity stresses character, scholarship and leadership.

The objects of the organization are to unite young men from various localities, to instill a feeling of campus fellowship, to promote the interests of the college, and to open doors of social activity that might otherwise be closed.

Activities of interest during the year include "The Holiday Hop" held at the Charleston Boat Club, pledge smoker at the Daniel Boone Hotel, and "The Shamrock Hop" held at the Casa Loma.

During the year, Phi Sigma Phi has lost two presidents, Bradley Gee, and R. D. Bradley, Jr., who graduated at mid-semester 1947.

Eldest of the Greek letter organizations on the Morris Harvey campus is the Zeta Kappa fraternity founded on March 14, 1923 by six students in old Billingsley Hall at Barboursville. Since then, it has been established as a national fraternity.

Although never forgetting the spirit of fellowship on which the fraternity was founded, its members have always been outstanding in their high social and scholastic ranking and on this foundation has been built the fraternity's history. Zeta Kappa seeks to instill in its members high ideals of honesty, equality, and religious humility while enriching the college life of its members socially.

Zeta Kappa boasted two Student Council officers, president and sergeant-at-arms. Others of the fraternity held class offices, membership in the Student Council and other campus organizations.

In a college year, activities for fraternity members range from a basketball game to the annual banquet and Spring Formal. Smokers for pledges and actives, formal initiations, various dances, dinner meetings were added to the list of college activities for its members. Two big social dates in the college year of the Zeta Kappas are the Birthday Ball and the Spring Formal.

The Morris Harvey Art Guild was organized for students interested in art, who wish to do creative work outside of classes. It gives them an opportunity to meet regularly as a group to sketch, model, paint, and to carry out projects of an artistic nature.

Members of the guild strive to make those around them "art conscious" through student exhibits, demonstrations, and lectures. The guild was inactive during the war and the absence of its sponsor, Miss Lucina Keane. It was reorganized this year, and has planned for the coming year, radio programs, workshops, and a spring exhibit.

The Ministerial Association of Morris Harvey College has as its goal the promotion of Christian living among the students of Morris Harvey College. Its members, fourteen in number, are students who are planning to eventually go into the ministry.

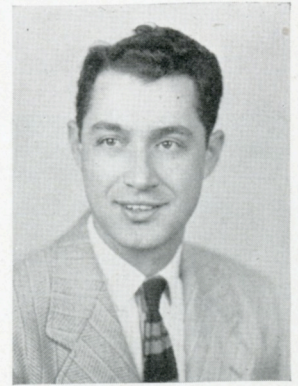

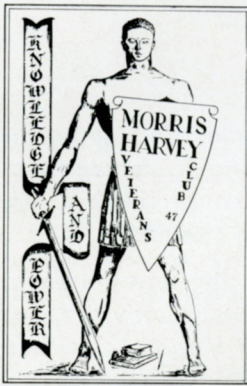

The Association has been represented in the devotionals of many of the college assemblies and in other campus activities, and many of its members are active pastors in West Virginia churches.

The Veterans Club of Morris Harvey College was organized primarily to give counseling and information to the veterans of Morris Harvey and to provide a social program for their entertainment.

Shown below is the major portion of the veterans assembly directed by Mr. Alan V. Morford, Veterans Contact Officer for Morris Harvey College.

"Life is just one profane line after another," could be the sentiments of vets toiling through the registration lines in the upper and lower left pictures. On the other side, the Joe in the upper right might be saying, "never had it so good." It all depends on the point of view. Even the occasional sight of (ugh) gold braid or brass met the stricken gaze of the veterans. The lower right shows a regiment of veterans just after the assembly shown on the opposite page. It has been said that there are almost as many veterans around Morris Harvey as there are pigeons.

The Debating Club has as its purpose to stimulate inter-collegiate activity in the field of debating and to offer the students practical experience in speech. The group has met many debating teams from other colleges, and had many more invitations which they were unable to accept.

Debates have been held with members of West Virginia State College, Fairmont State Teachers College, West Virginia University, Concord and Potomac State College.

Besides these debates and many others, the team has debated over the air with teams from West Virginia State College, and attended the Annual Spring Festival of West Virginia State College.

To be nominated for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is one of the most coveted honors sought during the school year. The purpose of the organization is to give national recognition to outstanding students. Membership is based upon character, scholarship, campus leadership, and potentiality. In Morris Harvey nominations of students are made by the Student Council and a faculty committee working together.

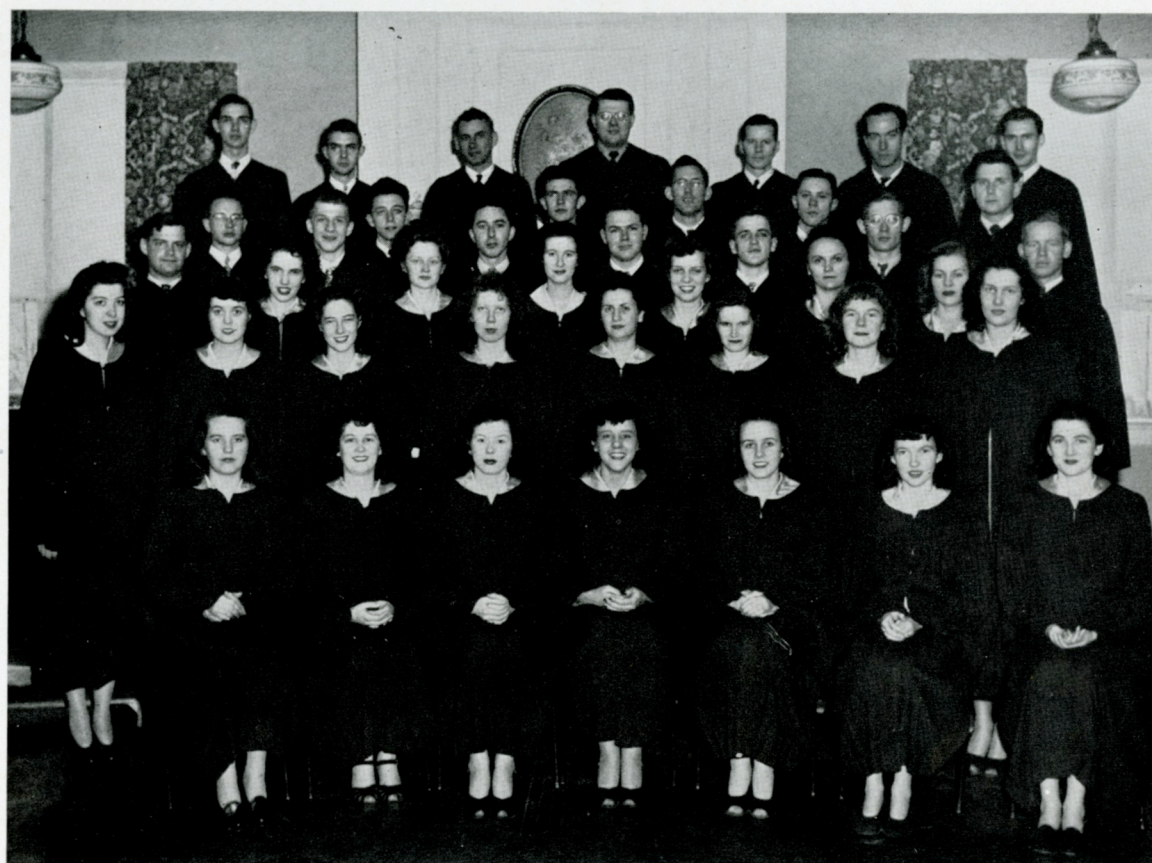

Two highlights of the 1946-47 choir year have been the presentation of the "Messiah" at Christmas time, and the choir tour.

The "Messiah" was presented at the Shrine Mosque to a capacity crowd. Local talent was utilized for the solo parts.

The choir, while on tour, visited Logan, Williamson, Welch, Bluefield, Princeton, Beckley, Hinton, Mt. Hope, Oak Hill, and Fayetteville.

Clicking typewriters, rushing reporters, excited editors; these are all one can see of the COMET staff just before press time. This year saw fourteen COMETS published. Most of them were more than the usual four-page rag, ranging from six to ten pages, depending on the financial status at the time.

It would seem the COMET went over since there were seldom even file copies remaining, especially the issues containing the exam schedules. The staff has big plans for next year; a real campus, an honest-to-goodness office of their own, and best of all—no pigeons, we hope! What more could a newspaper ask?

A football squad is composed of eleven men, padded in the most peculiar places,
Whose aim in life appears to be
to place an ovoid called,
for some reason
a pigskin, over an opponents goal line.
This involves a terrific amount of effort.
Occasionally they have been known to expend some effort in class.
A basketball squad is composed of five men,
unpadded.
They leap and cavort about a court (Rhyme unintentional) attempting to place a round ball through a loop covered with strong lace or net.
This appears very silly.
However, many students think that college life depends entirely on goals of one sort or another, mostly sporting.
There are other sports of course.
We will ignore them.
One thing about sports is that it teaches fair play, being a good sport, etc.
and builds up the body so that it will be harder to tear it down again later.
Sports are approved of it seems.
Students look upon sports and the sportsmen with wide-eyed wonder,
and a mixture of envy and admiration.
Especially the female student.
Turn the page and look upon our heroes. Bless them,
May they make many goals
in useful lives.

Take 33 new gridmen with 31 of them service vets, footballless for 3 to 4 years and only 6 of them with any time on a college field and you have the problem facing Coach Eddie King when he took over the victoryless team after two starts on October 17.

Morehead College of Kentucky and Potomac State had come in that order, 39 to 6 and 7 to 0. Exit Coach Propps, enter Coach King, still a set coaching staff found the boys firing on and off through the season like an old car.

When the West Virginia Wesleyan game came off next week-end, a night game at Buckhannon, luck and more spirit than '16 vintage helped Virg Carr lug the ball on a deflected pass that was good for the 6 to 2 victory.

A spasm of playing spirit not equalled in the rest of the season was evinced under the lights that night by the away-from-home Eagle flock. It could be rightly termed the thrill game of the year as the Eagles repeatedly repulsed the minions of Cebe Ross in goal line stands.

There followed in the Eagle's season a succession of defeats at the hands of a T-toned Marshall wave, 34 to 0, Youngstown, 28 to 14, and one in a squeeze, 7 to 6 on West Virginia Tech's mountain field.

FRANK KOVACH, Captain

Nothing that the gridmen could use in the way of play and defenses would serve to halt the smooth Marshall machine. The Eagles led at Youngstown 14 to 8 at the half but couldn't hold up in their injury weakened condition as the Ohioans scored 20 points.

A point after touchdown meant the difference at West Virginia Tech where the Techmen wielded the more accurate toe.

Glenville closed the season for the Eagles and provided a victory taste for the fans who turned out to witness the last game. The victory margin was provided by the 6 to 0 game by Virg Carr who closed out his sophomore year with a grand flourish. His yardage gained bettered that of his teammates together and in scoring the touchdown on a brilliant run, he raised to 5 the number of touchdowns scored by him in the season. Tom Bossie played well at end to win acclaim of the sports writers.

EDDIE KING, Head Coach

"Sparky" Adams presents the incidence of a team's star rising to coaching in his last year. However, the story is not all told as the interim between his junior and senior year was spent in the professional football leagues as a New York Giant regular. Realizing the value of a college sheepskin as collateral in the world at large, he came back in the role of assistant coach and a member of the student body.

Joe Jeffcott, as many of his athletic players, came back to finish school after the war. His experience as a newspaper reporter, editor, and promotional man stood the athletic department in good stead up until his resignation in mid-May.

The athletic department was shuffled around in the year's time like the only deck of cards at a frat smoker. No sooner did they get things ironed out in mid-football season than Joe Jeffcott ups to the college president and resigns for a better offer. Up to that time, Eddie King as head coach in both sports, and his assistant "Sparky" Adams with Jeffcott to handle most of the inside work as acting Athletic Director had made the office cook like a new range. Things were looking up as they made plans to take another worker with the athletes in the Fall. Then came the new vacancy and the release on who would fill them which we're waiting on now.

Coach King came to us with a master's degree in Physical Education from Michigan State and ten good years coaching high school teams in Huntington and Charleston. He is still young for a college coach and is stocked with a great many ideas on improvements on teams and athletics as generally instituted in schools. He abetted relations with high school athletic programs particularly.

SPARKY ADAMS, Assistant Coach

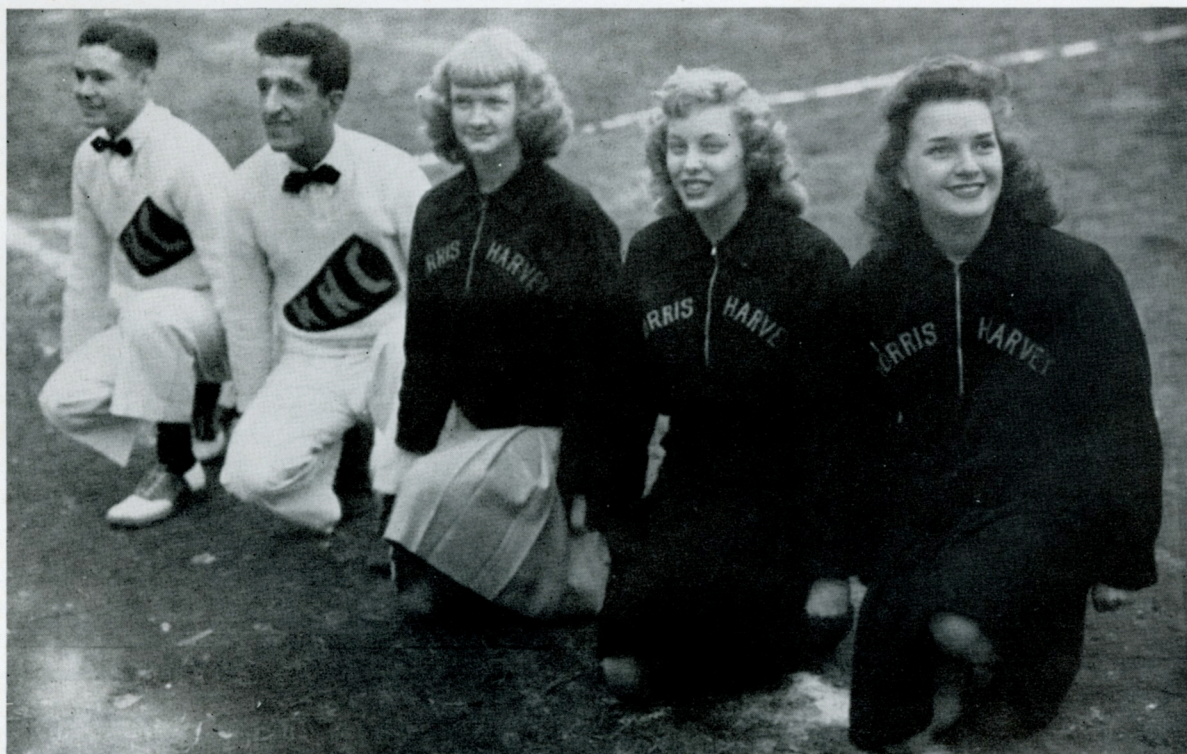

Director and Cheerleaders

In the win-lack-luster post-war season, two Eagle gridmen won recognition of berths on the West Virginia all-conference team. Tackle Frank Kovach, repeated, having been chosen for the team before leaving for the war. Virg Carr was lauded as one of the best running backs in West Virginia colleges and was honored. Kenneth "Skinny" Davis was given honorable mention at center.

The inauguration of an annual athletic award was made with Dave Beverly winning the Johnny "Esso" Stuart award as the best all-around athlete of the year. His performance at half-back post on the gridiron team and as center in basketball merited him the award.

Coach Carl Edward King greeted his '47 prospects in a rented Charleston High School gym and went on to coach the very short college team with only two holdovers to win 10 of 23 games.

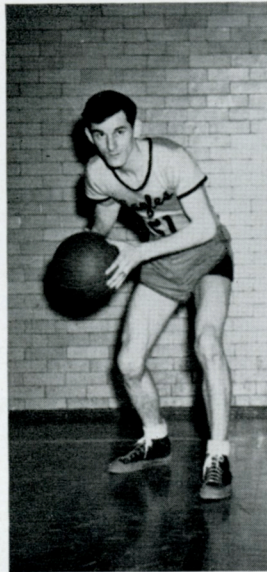

West Virginia University made its appearance on the schedule for the first time along with other notably strong schools. Marshall College, winner of two invitational tournaments, on the NAIB, received two scares from the Eagles in rivalry games to add to the season's thrills.

At the state collegiate basketball tournament won by Alderson-Broaddus, the Eagles were matched against Salem in the first round. Against this team, with which they had split games in the regular season, the Golden Eagles fell 66 to 56 after gamely tying up the score against the taller opponents to set up an extra period. George King and Sonny Moran led the Eagle scoring attack with 15 and 11 points.

The team's play through the season was not without individual standouts. Freshman George King led scoring through the season to end high up in conference standings. He was selected as forward on the all-tournament team at Buckhannon. Team captain "Butch" Boucher was third in season's scoring and repeated as the most valuable player choice, having won the mention as an Eagle cager in 1942.

1947 Graduating Class
Morris Harvey College
Charleston
West Virginia

Dear Members:

You are to be congratulated upon your graduation from Morris Harvey College. A college education will be of great benefit to you as you go out into the world in your chosen profession. We know that you will make a name for yourself of which you and your school will be proud.

Speaking of names, we represent a name that has long been known in the transportation field. That name is DODGE. Dodge cars and Dodge job-rated trucks have stood the test for many years.

To you who are among the chosen few of your generation we again say congratulations and may all your ambitions be realized.

Sincerely yours,

14 PERCENT ...

Is the percent electricity has gone down since 1939, while the cost of living has steadily gone up during the same period.

Not only since 1939, but for the past 20 years, the cost of electricity has consistently gone down. Actually the average American family is now getting twice as much electricity for its money as it did 20 years ago.

This record has been accomplished by improved methods and greater economy in the mass production of power.

Take the above accomplishments and add them to good, sound business management and you have the reason for such reduced electric rates.
